UW-MADISON JUDGES PLACE FOURTH AT ALL-AMERICAN DAIRY JUDGING CONTEST

Dairy cattle judges from 15 universities competed in the annual All-American Dairy Cattle Judging Contest held Monday, September 14th, 2015 in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Leading UW-Madison’s team was Mariah Fjarlie of Tillamook, Ore. Fjarlie was the third overall individual and also took third in Oral Reasons. Other team members included, Bethany Dado, Erica Ballmer and Lindsey Hellenbrand.

The Badgers placed fourth overall with 2,039 points. Highlights included the team placing fourth in Oral Reasons with two team members finishing in the top ten of that category. The team was also third in Ayrshires, fourth in Guernseys and fifth in Jerseys.

Brian Kelroy and Chad Wethal coached the UW team.

“We are proud of the improvement these seniors have made in their judging careers during their time here at UW–Madison,” stated Wethal. “We are especially pleased for Mariah who was a member of last year’s national championship team and was able to close out her career on high note.”
